We had been provided with some rough seamen's clothes for our better covering on the voyage, but now, being landed and lodged in the Crown inn at Chatham Don Sanchez would have the captain take them all back.

"But," says he, "if you will do us yet another favor, captain, will you suffer one of your men to carry a letter to Mistress Godwin's steward at Chiselhurst, that he may come hither to relieve us from our present straits?"

"Aye," answers he, "I will take the letter gladly myself, for nothing pleases me better than a ramble in the country where I was born and bred."

So Moll writes a letter at once to Simon bidding him come at once to her relief, and Captain Ballcock, after carefully inquiring his way to this place he knew so well (as he would have us believe) starts off with it, accompanied by his boatswain, a good natured kind of hobgoblin, who never failed to back up his captain's assertions, which again was to our great advantage, for Simon would thus learn our story from his lips, and be given no room to doubt its veracity.

As soon as these two were out of the house Dawson who had been carried from the ship and laid in bed though as hale since we passed the Goodwins as ever he was in his life, sprang up, and declared he would go to bed no more for all the fortunes in the world till he had supped on roast pork and onions—this being a dish he greatly loved, but not to be had at Elche, because the Moors by their religion forbid the use of swine's flesh—and seeing him very determined on this head Don Sanchez ordered a leg of pork to be served in our chamber, whereof Dawson did eat such a prodigious quantity, and drank therewith such a vast quantity of strong ale (which he protested was the only liquor an Englishman could drink with any satisfaction) that in the night he was seized with most severe cramp in his stomach.

This gave us the occasion to send for a doctor, [illegible] who learning that [illegible] had been ill ever since we left Barbary and not understanding his present complaint pulled a very long face at declaring his case was very critical, bled him copiously, forbade him to leave his bed for another fortnight, [illegible] half a dozen [illegible]. About midday he returns, and finding his patient no better, administers a bolus, and while we are all standing about the bed and Dawson the color of [illegible] and groaning betwixt the mouthfuls of [illegible] he had swallowed and the cramp in his inwards, in comes our Captain Ballcock and the little steward.

Then [illegible] turning on Simon, "did I not tell you that my old friend [illegible] at death's door with the treatment he hath received of these Barbary pirates. Now will you be putting us off with your babbling and your questionings? Shall I have up my ship's company to testify to the truth of my history? Look you madam (to Moll) 'we had all the trouble in the world to [illegible] to this steward [illegible] your bidding, but he should have come though we had to bring him by the [illegible] heels and a pox to him— [illegible] your presence."

"But this is not Simon," says Moll, with a pretty air of innocence. "I seem to remember Simon a bigger man than he."

"You must consider madam," says Don Sanchez, "that then you were very small [illegible] higher than his waist may be, and [illegible] you would have to look up into his face."

"I did not think of that. And are you really Simon who used to scold me for plucking fruit?"

"Yea verily," answers he. "Doubt it not, for thou also hast changed beyond conception. And so it hath come to pass." He adds staring round at us in our Moorish garb like one bewildered. "And thou art my mistress now," turning again to Moll.

"Alas!" says she, bowing her head and covering her eyes with her hand.

"Han't I told you so, unbelieving Jew Quaker?" growls Captain Ballcock in exasperation. "Why will you plague the unhappy lady with her loss?"

"We will have Evans to repine," says Moll, brushing her eyes and turning to the door. "You will save his life, doctor, for he has given me mine."

The doctor vowed he would, if bleeding and boluses could make him whole, and so, leaving him with poor groaning Dawson, we went into the next chamber. And there Captain Ballcock was for taking his leave, but Moll, detaining him, says:

"We owe you something more than gratitude—we have put you to much expense."

"Nay," cries he. "I will take naught for doing a common act of mercy."

"You shall not be denied the joy of generosity," says she, with a sweet grace. "But you must suffer me to give your ship's company some token of my gratitude." Then, turning to Simon with an air of authority, she says, "Simon, I have no money."

The poor man fumbled in his pocket, and bringing out a purse laid it open, showing some four or five pieces of silver and one of gold, which he hastily covered with his hand.

"I see you have not enough," says Moll, and taking up a pen she quickly wrote some words on a piece of paper, signing it "Judith Godwin." Then, showing it to Simon, she says, "You will pay this when it is presented to you," and therewith she folds it and places it in the captain's hand, bidding him farewell in a pretty speech.

"A hundred pounds! a hundred pounds!" gasps Simon under his breath, in an agony, and clutching up his purse to his breast.

"I am astonished," says Moll, returning from the door and addressing Simon, with a frown upon her brow, "that you are not better furnished to supply my wants, knowing by my letter how I stand."

"Mistress," replies he humbly, "here is all I could raise upon such sudden notice," laying his purse before her.

"What is this?" cries she, emptying the contents upon the table. "'Tis nothing. Here is barely sufficient to pay for our accommodation in this inn. Where is the money to discharge my debt to those friends who have lost all in saving me? You were given timely notice of their purpose."

"Pray thee be patient with me, gentle mistress. 'Tis true, I knew of their intent, but they were to have returned in six months, and when they came not at the end of the year I did truly give up all for lost, and so I made a fresh investment of your fortune, laying it out all in life bonds and houses, to great worldly advantage, as you shall see in good time. Ere long I may get in some rents"—

"And in the meanwhile are we to stay in this plight—to beg for charity?" asks Moll indignantly.

"Nay, mistress. Doubtless for your present wants this kind merchant friend"—

"We have lost all," says I. "Evans his ship and I the lading in which all my capital was embarked."

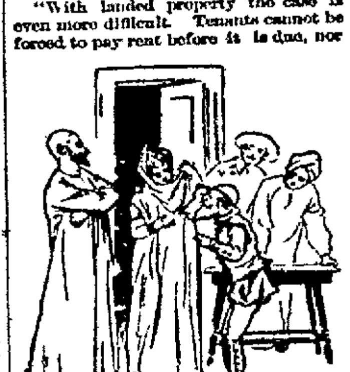
"And I every maravedi I possessed," adds the don.

"And had they not," cries Moll, "were they possessed now of all they had, think you that I with an estate, as I am told, of £60,000 would add to the debt I owe them by one single penny?"

"If I may speak in your steward's defense, madam," says I, "I would point out that the richest estate is not always readily converted into money. 'Tis like a rich jewel which the owner, though he be starving, must hold till he find a market."

"Thee hearest him, mistress," cries Simon in delight. "A man of business—a merchant who knows these things. Explain it further, friend, for thine are words of precious wisdom."

"With landed property the case is even more difficult. Tenants cannot be forced to pay rent before it is due, nor can their mortgages be sold over their heads. And possibly all your capital is invested in land."—



"But this is not Simon," says Moll

"Every farthing that could be scraped together," says Simon, "and not a rood of it but is leased to substantial men. Oh what excellent discourse! Proceed further, friend."

"Nevertheless," says I, "there are means of raising money upon credit. If he live there still, there is a worthy Jew in St. Mary Axe who upon certain considerations of interest"—

"Hold, friend!" cries Simon. "What art thee thinking of? Wouldst deliver my simple mistress into the hands of Jew usurers?"

"Not without proper covenants made out by lawyers and attorneys."

"Lawyers, attorneys and usurers! Heaven have mercy upon us! Verily thee wouldst infest us with a pest, and bleed us to death for our cure."

"I will have such relief as I may," says Moll, "so pray, sir, do send for these lawyers and Jews at once, and the quicker, since my servant seems more disposed to hinder than to help me."

"Forbear, mistress, for the love of God, forbear!" cries Simon, in an agony, clasping his hands. "Be not misguided by this foolish merchant, who hath all to gain and naught to lose by this proceeding. Give me but a little space, and their claims shall be met, thy desires shall be satisfied and yet half of thy estate be saved which else must be all devoured betwixt these ruthless money lenders and lawyers. I can make a covenant more binding than any attorney, as I have proved again and again, and" (with a gulp) "if money must be raised at once I know an honest, a fairly honest, goldsmith in Lombard street who will at the market rate."

"These gentlemen," answers Moll, turning to us, "may not choose to wait, and I will not incommode them for my own convenience."

"Something for our present need we must have, madam," says the don, with a magnificent glance at his outlandish dress, "but, those wants supplied, I am content to wait."

"And you, sir?" says Moll to me.

"With a hundred or two," says I, taking Don Sanchez's hint, "we may do very well till Michaelmas."

"Be reasonable, gentlemen," implores Simon, mopping his eyes, which ran afresh at this demand. "'Tis but some five or six weeks to Michaelmas; surely £50"—

"Silence!" cries Moll, with an angry tap of her foot. "Will £300 content you, gentlemen? Consider, the wants of our good friend, Captain Evans, may be more pressing than yours."

"He is a good, honest, simple man, and I think we may answer for his accepting the conditions we make for ourselves. Then, with some reasonable guarantee for our future payment"—

"That may be contrived to our common satisfaction, I hope," says Moll, with a gracious smile. "I owe you half my estate, share my house at Chiselhurst with me till the rest is forthcoming. That will give me yet a little longer the pleasure of your company. And there, sir," turning to me, "you can examine my steward's accounts for your own satisfaction, and counsel me mayhap upon the conduct of my affairs, knowing so much upon matters of business that are incomprehensible to a simple, inexperienced girl. Then, should you find aught amiss in my steward's books, anything to shake your confidence in his management, you will, in justice to your friends, in kindness to me, speak your mind openly, that instant reformation may be made."

Don Sanchez and I expressed our agreement to this proposal, and Moll, turning to the poor, unhappy steward, says in her high tone of authority:

"You hear this matter is ordered, Simon. Take up that purse for your own uses. Go into the town and send such tradesmen hither as may supply us with proper clothing. Then to your goldsmith in London and bring me back £600."

"Six—hundred—pounds!" cries he, hardly above his breath, and with a pause between each word as if to gain strength to speak 'em.

"Six hundred, three for these gentlemen and three for my own needs. When that is done, hasten to Chiselhurst and prepare my house, and, as you value my favor, see that nothing is wanting when I come."

And here, lest it should be thought that Moll could not possibly play her part so admirably in this business, I do protest that I have set down no more than I recollect, and that without exaggeration. Further, it must be observed that in our common experience many things happen which would seem impossible but for the evidence of our senses and which no poet would have the hardihood to represent. 'Tis true that in this, as in other more surprising particulars to follow, Moll did surpass all common women, but 'tis only such extraordinary persons that furnish material for any history. And I will add that anything is possible to one who hath the element of greatness in her composition, and that it depends merely on the accident of circumstance whether a Moll Dawson becomes a great saint or a great sinner—a blessing or a curse to humanity.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

THE time is now at hand when the members of the Republican county committee become something more than mere figure heads. It is their plain duty to see that the poll books are properly and accurately prepared, that good workers at the polls are secured, that an organization of the party is effected in each election district that a full vote may be gotten out on election day.

Don't fail to vote this year.

THE chairman of the Democratic state committee, it is announced, has "started on a campaign of education" by mailing "a large amount of political literature to every city, town and hamlet in this state." The object of this "campaign of education," judging from the character of the political literature sent out, is to teach voters to believe statements which terribly pervert political facts. The masses, in the recent past, manifested a decided repugnance to such an "education."

Don't fail to vote this year.

THE Democrats are boasting of Republican defection. Their hope of electing any part of their ticket, of course, is based on the expectation that many friends of some of the defeated candidates will bolt their party ticket and vote for some one of the other candidates. We think such a hope is delusive. This is not a year for a Democratic harvest. Republicans have suffered too much at the hands of the Democratic party to feel like rewarding a Democrat for aiding in bringing about such a deplorable condition of things. They are not running with winged feet to assist in Democratic success.

Don't fail to vote this year.

DEMOCRATIC rejoicings over the victory of the Democratic city ticket in Indianapolis are superfluous and, in a measure, out of place. The result of the election in that city was one entirely to the demand of the citizens without regard to partisanship for cleaner and more business like government than the Republican machine has been furnishing and it could not have been brought about without Republican assistance. Revulsions such as these have no partisan significance whatever. The one lesson that they teach is that, in the long run, the best equipped party machines, if dishonestly managed, must give way to the force of public opinion.

Don't fail to vote this year.

STATE Chairman Quay confidently expects a good sized majority for the Republican ticket. Because it is an "off year" he is not leaving anything undone to get out the vote. Every Republican should go to the polls on election day. He should feel that this is his duty. Urging should be unnecessary. And beware of a Democratic trick that will be attempted. Republicans will be asked to give complimentary votes for Democratic candidates. "Your party will win anyway," these tricksters will say. Don't be fooled. Don't throw your vote away on Democratic candidates. If you do it is just possible that your vote will help elect Democrats to office. Of course, that is what Democrats are after when they ask you for a complimentary vote. Every Republican should put his cross mark in the circle on the left hand side of the ticket at the head of the Republican column.

Don't fail to vote this year.

NEVER during the many years of Republican administrations have the people of this country suffered such an experience of business depression as they have during the past three years. The election of Cleveland to a second term, and the senate and house of representatives being turned over to the Democrats has been a dearly bought lesson to the industrial masses of this country. Their sufferings commenced during the winter following the election of a Democratic congress in 1892. The election of the Republican congress in 1894 encouraged manufacturers, and a slight improvement was secured, but while a Democratic president is in position to wield the veto power the industries of the nation will falter along like convalescents dreading to venture beyond their strength for fear of a relapse. They need a stimulant, and an overwhelming Republican majority in November will be recognized as such, for it will be accepted that the revulsion of political feeling that has been displayed ever since the passage of the Wilson bill is lasting, and will continue until the Republican party has an opportunity to bring prosperity once more to the country.

Don't fail to vote this year.

"GET OUT EVERY VOTE IN PENNSYLVANIA. LET THERE BE A MAGNIFICENT TRIUMPH IN 1895, AND NEXT YEAR THE REPUBLICANS FROM MAINE TO CALIFORNIA CAN MARCH TO THE MUSIC OF REPUBLICAN SUCCESS AND REPUBLICAN SUPREMACY."—GENERAL J. S. CLARKSON.

Don't fail to vote this year.

DON'T PERMIT YOURSELF TO BE DECEIVED BY THE SIZE OF THE MAJORITY IN PENNSYLVANIA. YOUR VOTE IS NEEDED. CAST IT EARLY IN THE DAY.

Courage and Reform.

"The New York Tribune in a [illegible] editorial demands 'courage from the Republican party.' The party, as the Tribune truly says, has never failed when it was brave. This advice is wise and timely. In Pennsylvania the party has taken high ground. The platform is not alone Courage, but Courage towards Reform!"—Hon. John Russell Young.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor any other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c and $1.00 per bottle at A. W. Colegrove's and L. B. Armstrong & Co.'s drug stores.

THE WELL.

The Great Chief on the Mountain has spoken, and the braves in the valley must give heed to the mighty words uttered by the great Sachem from his wigwam which rests upon the lofty heights where the waters flow in every direction. Unfortunately we have raised his ire because we said a few words in last week's MINER in opposition to the new rules which emanated from his powerful brain, for which he jumps on us in a manner that would naturally lead a person to infer that our little article had upset his plans and knocked them into a cocked hat. After conferring with men of acknowledged ability, who heartily agreed with us, we published a short article in opposition to the measure in order to open up a discussion of the matter so that the Republican voters could more fully understand the question that will soon be brought before them for final action. Evidently the shot hit the mark, judging from the style in which our eminent journalistic friend comes back at us in the Republican of last Tuesday. It is indeed sad to be "surprised and pained," too, at what is said in one short article, but such are his words. As all men cannot look at a question from the same standpoint and view it in the same light, we are compelled to disagree with Mr. Rogers. The Republican says:

> A condition has been reached in McKean county which absolutely prohibits a poor man from seeking an office at the hands of the Republican party. It costs him at least a year's salary to pay the expenses of a canvass, commencing with the day he starts in to secure the nomination to the night of the election.

Can a candidate, according to the new rules, secure a nomination with less expense than he could under the delegate system? We say, No! for under the new plan the candidates would be compelled to personally visit every Republican voter in the county, and keep visiting them up to the eve of the caucus, as, according to the Colonel's own words, they are not too honest and the last candidate to pay a visit would (in the Republican's way of thinking) secure the vote, and at the end of the campaign the candidate would find his pocket very empty and very few votes to pay for his trouble. The editor of the Republican, in his bombastic style, calls everything which does not agree with his views "idle talk." Such may be the case, but that does not convince everyone that such is the case. Again he says:

> Since the formation of this government to the present time, the principle has prevailed in the selection of candidates, that the one receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected. It matters not whether he is a candidate for nomination or election, if he receives more votes than his competitors he is entitled to the office.

Here is where our esteemed contemporary is off, and a man who has presided over as many conventions and public bodies as he has should know better than to advance such ideas. It would be better to take the "ass out of the lion's skin" and place his foolish expression in the receptacle. He knows that he is mistaken when he says, "the one securing the highest number of votes shall be declared elected." This may work all right as to elections, but not as to conventions, and no one knows it better than Mr. Rogers. A majority over all other candidates has always been the rule governing these conventions.

The Republican will very likely discover before this discussion is ended that we are not alone in opposing the new rules. His bluster and blow will not convince anyone. Better state the facts plainly; bulldozing will not cut any figure with the enlightened voters of McKean county. If the new rules are better than the old delegate system, this discussion that the MINER has started will bring out all the good points the new rules may contain. The MINER will venture a prediction, and that is, the rules will be overwhelmingly defeated.

EDITOR LAYMON, of the Port Allegany Reporter, takes us to task for cautioning Republican voters about giving complimentary votes to Democratic candidates, and claims that complimentary votes come only from Democrats. We have gone carefully over the election returns on file in the prothonotary's office since 1875 and find that C. L. Pershing, Democratic candidate for Governor, carried the county that year by a majority of 36 votes. From that year up to 1882, at the general elections, it went Republican. But Pattison carried the county by 348 votes, while W. W. Brown, (Rep.) for Congress, carried the county by over 400. From 1883 to 1890 it went solidly Republican. In the latter year Pattison carried the county by 735, owing to the unpopularity of Delamater, but the balance of the Democratic ticket was defeated. In 1894 Hastings carried the county by a majority of 2,065. Here are the returns of twenty years on the head of the ticket, and three times in the twenty years have the Democrats carried the county. Where does the question of complimentary votes come in? Is it not about time that Republicans stopped boosting Democrats into office. The election returns clearly show that Republicans have been too kind to the Democrats; otherwise they would not have carried the county at any of the periods mentioned. We do not feel like entering into a lengthy controversy over this matter, but simply wish to show Mr. Laymon where the complimentary votes came from; certainly not from Democrats to Republicans, but on the contrary, from the Republicans to the Democrats.

WE ARE sorry, indeed, that the ex editor of the MINER, has been so painfully surprised at the position we take on the question of the proposed change in the Republican rules, and are also somewhat surprised at the manner in which he attacks us. He shows, beyond a doubt, that his temper got the better of him when he and his committee were opposed by this paper in their efforts to foist upon the Republican party of this county a system of nominating which would in time disfranchise large numbers of the party and have a tendency to centralize the offices in the most thickly populated sections of the county. Well, Col. Rogers, after this you won't be surprised if you find that we do not agree with you on all points touching party policy, for whenever as weak a set of rules as those proposed are presented to the party for their consideration, you will find the MINER will oppose them, as they would any other wild scheme. The Colonel should be the last one to speak of our lack of party knowledge, for "they do say" he has made mistakes himself when he managed the MINER. When the new rules can be proved to us to be a beneficial measure for the Republican party in this county, we will acknowledge ourselves mistaken, but, until then, we will urge our readers to do what they can to defeat them.

THE Era of last Monday editorially says: "Thomas B. Clark, Republican candidate for County Treasurer, is an able, honest man. He is a practical business man and the sort of one to handle the county funds and perform the duties of the office capably and conscientiously. Personally he is one of the most popular men in the county and it is safe to predict that he will be given a handsome majority. The talk about Republican disaffection and dark mysterious schemes to defeat Clark, by pretended friends, is simply nonsense. Clark and Tate have conducted a clean campaign and the contest will be won on merit and according to party strength.

THE Philadelphia Times of Monday practically concedes the election of Col. Bradley, the Republican candidate for Governor in the State of Kentucky. In the same article it virtually admits that there is no question but what Maryland will fall into line and elect a Republican Governor. The Times has some hopes of saving New Jersey and electing McGill, Democrat, for Governor, but the chances are that Col. McClure will be mistaken in his guess on this State. Also on Ohio, which he seems to think will elect Campbell to the Governorship.

THE Government has lately perfected a new postal car that is a wonderful improvement on the old style. The cars are strongly constructed, will not telescope in a wreck and are safe, or practically so, from train robbers. There are no platforms to these postal cars, and they are constructed so that they will come close together, several of them presenting the appearance of one long car. Their trial trip was over the Baltimore & Ohio R. R. from New York to St. Louis, Mo.

THE export of oats for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1894 under the McKinley tariff was 5,671,352 bushels. For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1895, under the Wilson Gorman tariff there was exported 540,675 bushels. A falling off of 5,130,677 bushels. Oh, yes, we are capturing the markets of the world, in a horn.

FARMERS, note this: the value of sheep in the United States in 1892 was $116,121,270. In 1895 the value of sheep had fallen to $66,685,767. Put this in your pipe and smoke it, while you who voted for a change in 1892 ponder over your work and see that you do better in the future.

THE first eight months under the McKinley tariff there was imported 25,430 tons of hay. The first eight months under the Wilson-Gorman tariff there was imported 130,157 tons. This will be cheerful news to the farmers.

UNDER the Cleveland-Wilson-Gorman lead Uncle Sam has been compelled to take the gold cure, administered by English bankers. The worst of the whole matter is, he has taken three doses already. It is hoped the medicine will not prove fatal.

THE Supreme Court of the State has decided that each voter is entitled to cast a ballot for only six candidates for Superior Court Judges.

GOV. CLARK, of Arkansas, shows the proper spirit in refusing to allow prize fighting in that State.

ENCYCLOPEDIA speeches will now be in order as the President started for Atlanta last Monday.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES.

The Supreme Court of the State upholds the new Superior Court act, including the limited vote feature by which no one is permitted to vote for more than six of the seven candidates. As the principle of the limited vote was not unknown to our election laws before the adoption of the new constitution, and as the convention which framed that constitution was itself elected by the limited vote, it was assuming a great deal to hold that it does not exist under the constitution except where such a form of election is especially directed. Nowhere in that instrument is the right of the Legislature to authorize the limited vote at any election taken away, and as that right existed before, in the silence of the constitution it might be assumed that it continued to exist. Judge Simonton took a different view, but the Supreme Court fails to agree with him, so the Superior Court act is sustained in its integrity.—Ex.

A DEMOCRATIC SCHEME

IN A MYSTERIOUS STILL HUNT.

REPUBLICAN APATHY HIS HOPE.

Extraordinary Documents Which Convey the Belief That the Free Traders Expect to Carry the Citadel of Protection Through Republican Default—The Letters Carry a Moral, and It Is: "Do Not Be Over Confident."

[Special Correspondence.]

HARRISBURG, Oct 22.—Two remarkable "confidential" letters sent out by Robert E. Wright, the chairman of the Democratic state committee, leaked out here tonight. These documents, while innocently worded, in some parts reveal a Democratic scheme to capture Pennsylvania. Visionary as it may appear, it is nevertheless a fact. Chairman Wright has been conducting a "still hunt" for the past three weeks. Democratic workers are being secretly instructed. It is remarkable to note that Mr. Wright hopes to capture the citadel of protection through Republicans themselves. That is to say, he thinks Republican apathy is so great that the Republican stay at home vote will defeat the Republican ticket. He believes that the Republicans in this state are so blinded by their big majorities that the Democrats can concoct any sort of a scheme and it will not be suspected by their incredulous Republican friends. It is nonsense to laugh the matter off. Democratic activity as against Republican apathy may make a big difference in the result. The scheme, however, has been discovered in its infancy. It remains for Republicans to take warning and see that it fails signally.

Letter No. 1 is mild, and merely leads up to the other. It is as follows:

DEMOCRATIC
ALLENTOWN, PA., Oct. 2, 1895.
[Confidential.]

MY DEAR SIR—In order to properly carry on the campaign work it is absolutely necessary that each county committeeman should do certain work for us. We know your earnestness and efficiency in the cause of Democracy, and therefore have no hesitation in calling on you for what we desire. I enclose a letter sent some weeks ago to each county chairman. I wish you would read it carefully. What I want now is that within the next two or three days you send me the following lists:

1. The name of one active Democrat in each school district in your township or in each block in your ward, if your district is a city or borough, to act as sub committeeman to aid you and me.

2. The name of one active young Democrat (even though he has not been an active politician heretofore) in each school district, or in each block, as above indicated. Give me the name and postoffice address of each.

We have written you on this subject before, if our record is correct, but have had no answer. Will you kindly attend to it now? Yours truly,

ROBERT E. WRIGHT, Chairman.

Having felt his way thus carefully, Mr. Wright sends out another circular marked confidential, which reveals the scheme. In order to enforce and emphasize his instructions he underscores the portion assuring the recipient of the election of the Democratic ticket, saying "of this there can be no doubt." The letter is as follows:

DEMOCRATIC
STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
ALLENTOWN, PA., Oct. 21, 1895.
[Confidential.]

MY DEAR SIR—If you and every other Democrat in Pennsylvania who receives this letter will vote the Democratic state ticket on the 5th of November, six Democratic judges of the superior court and a Democratic state treasurer will be elected. Of this there can be no doubt.

The Republican leaders concede that their candidates cannot poll more than 70 per cent. of their party votes. If we poll 80 per cent. of ours we will carry the state. Will you vote and help to make it 85 per cent.?

This year we shall not resort to the ordinary campaign methods of public meetings, parades and idle demonstrations, but we do earnestly appeal personally and directly to you, and to each individual Democrat to give to the party and the state the time and trouble needed to cast a vote. Will you do it?

If each one of you votes, I can assure you of the election of your nominees. On behalf of your party, I urge upon you the performance of this duty. Yours truly,

ROBERT E. WRIGHT, Chairman.

THE DUTY OF REPUBLICANS.

Mr. Wright makes one misstatement in his second letter. He says the Republican leaders CONCEDE that their candidate cannot poll more than 70 per cent. of the party vote. The Republican managers concede no such thing. It is true that the party vote has shrunk on an average of 20 per cent. in "off years," but the party managers will not be satisfied with this condition of affairs. They propose to poll the full vote, or as near the full vote as possible. Publicity is likely to have a fatal effect on Chairman Wright's scheme. Let Republicans do their duty and Grover Cleveland will be disappointed.

Don't fail to vote this year.

WE ARE ON THE EVE OF A GREAT PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN. A ROUSING MAJORITY IN PENNSYLVANIA THIS YEAR WILL STIMULATE REPUBLICANS TO RENEWED EXERTION IN EVERY ONE OF THE CLOSE AND DOUBTFUL STATES.

Don't fail to vote this year.

DO YOUR DUTY.

Republicans of the Various Counties Should Not be Apathetic.

Republicans of the several districts of the county should be preparing to poll as large a vote as possible. Over confidence is the danger in this campaign. It is only a question of majority in Pennsylvania. The Republican tide is strong, and the people are anxiously awaiting Republican success both this year and next. But in order to emphasize this fact it is necessary for those who believe in Republican principles and policies to go to the polls and express their sentiments. It must be remembered that this is an off year. Ordinarily we would have but a state treasurer to elect, and in only a few counties are there county tickets to elect.

This year the importance of the state election is increased by the fact that we have to elect seven judges who shall constitute our superior court. It is seldom the people have an opportunity of exercising so much power at one time as in the coming election. On Nov. 5, they will choose an entire appellate judicial tribunal which shall exercise jurisdiction in a very large class of important cases. The legal ability of the gentlemen composing the Republican ticket has never been questioned. They are men of high standing in the several communities in which they reside, and will honor the party and the state in the administration of the judicial office.—Butler Eagle.

Don't fail to vote this year.

Free Trade Trick Foiled.

The outlook is becoming clearer. The attempts made to concentrate public attention on the currency question have failed signally. It would have gratified free traders to have seen strife among the protectionists by creating new issues. Such strife might have undoubtedly weakened the protectionist cause and enabled free traders to accomplish their aims stealthily. But the patriotism and intelligence of the people have saved them from any such misfortune. Protectionists are earnest, active and united. They are strong in numbers and are gaining in strength all the time. They are refraining wisely from disputes over details and holding firmly to the broad principles on which protection to home industry is founded.

Don't fail to vote this year.

The Vote Here This Year and Its Influence on National Issues.

PARTY WORKERS SHOULD MEET

And Map Out Plans to Bring Every Voter to the Polls. The Hardest Kind of Labor Is Necessary from Now Until Election Day in Order to Arouse the People and Convince Them of the Importance of This Campaign.

[Special Correspondence.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Activity at the headquarters of the Republican state committee grows more pronounced as election day draws near. Chairman Quay and Executive Chairman Leach are straining every nerve in order to get out the full Republican vote. They are forced to combat a great deal of apathy and lack of interest that seems to prevail in parts of the state, but they are convinced that when the importance of the campaign is thoroughly understood this state of affairs will be changed. In order to make the November verdict an emphatic one it will be necessary for every active Republican to take off his coat and work with a vim. Party men throughout the state should not permit themselves to be misled by the size of the majorities in the past. This is the eve of a presidential year, and it would be a fatal blunder to permit the majority in Pennsylvania to shrink because of over confidence on the part of party workers.

FAVORABLE RESPONSES.

The state committee has endeavored to impress upon the influential Republicans throughout the state the necessity of their co-operating with the county committee and local organizations in getting out the full vote. The responses to this desire have been highly favorable. One prominent Republican, writing from Pottsville, says:

"Your esteemed favor of the 8th inst. received. I would say in reply that the organization in this particular locality is complete. Six of the best Republican voters in this neighborhood have consented to co-operate with me in getting out the vote. Each man has taken the names of a certain number of voters in my ward—which is the First—and they propose to see these men personally, and to make it their personal business to know that they go to the polls on the 5th of November. We are all enthusiastically at work for the ticket and propose that none but dead Republicans shall stay at home this year."

A CLOSE ORGANIZATION.

The state committee is anxious to perfect what is known as a close organization. In other words, to get out the vote beyond a doubt it is absolutely necessary to reach each individual voter. The state committee is doing its share in this direction, but its work will be in vain unless it receives local support. In other words, the county committees must do its share of the work. Then precinct organizations must be formed, and these organizations must divide and subdivide their work until every individual has his particular portion of the work mapped out and assigned to him. The following letter from a party man in Montgomery county shows that this particular individual has grasped the idea that is essential to success:

"DEAR SIR: There are ninety Republican voters in our precinct, and at a meeting held the other night we discussed ways and means for getting every one of them to the polls. I was given the names of eight of these Republicans and told that if I brought them to the polls I would be doing my share of the work. Since that time I have called upon each one of these eight voters. Five readily promised to go to the polls. Two said they would not have the time, and did not think their votes were needed, anyhow. I talked with these two until they promised to vote also. The eighth man was an invalid and unable to walk to the polls. I promised to furnish him with a conveyance, and he will vote, too. I do not intend to stop at this, but will make it my particular business to see that all of my eight people cast their ballots on the 5th of November."

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

If the spirit showed by this man was emulated by every Republican worker in the state the majority would be overwhelming. It is generally conceded that such a result is exceedingly important. If the work is mapped out and divided intelligently, and all hands got to work systematically and intelligently, the best possible results will be attained. If the matter is not taken in hand properly the stay at home vote will unquestionably be large. To attain results energetic work is needed at once. Election day is only about two weeks off, and the leading Republicans of the various sections should get together and formulate their final plans for a great victory. Every Republican and doubtful voter in the state should be looked after.

Nervous Prostration

Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Prolonged derangement of the nervous system not only affects the brain and mental powers, but develops disease in some of the vital organs. The most dangerous of these indirect results is when the heart is affected. This was the case of the Rev. N. F. Surface, Fawn River, Mich., who writes under date of Feb. 14, 1895:

"Fourteen years ago I had a slight stroke of paralysis. Overwork brought on nervous prostration. I was exceedingly nervous and the exertion of public speaking caused heart palpitation that threatened my life. I used two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure for my heart trouble, and two of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for my nervousness and feel better than I ever expected to feel again. I can speak for hours without tiring or having my heart flutter as it formerly did, and I have you to thank that I am alive today."

Increases the discomfort of the voyager. But even when the weather is not tempestuous he is liable to sea sickness. They who traverse the "gigantic wetness" should be provided with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which quiets disordered stomachs with gratifying speed and certainty. To the hurtful influence of a tropic, malarious or too rigorous or damp climate, as well as to the baneful effects of unwholesome diet and bad water, it is a reliable antidote. Commercial travelers by sea or land, mariners, miners, western pioneers, and all who have to encounter vicissitudes of climate and temperature, concur in pronouncing it the best safeguard. It prevents rheumatism and pulmonary attacks in consequence of damp and cold, and it is an efficient defense against all forms of malaria. It can be depended upon in dyspepsia, liver and kidney trouble.

P. D. Hopkins has put down a new sidewalk on the north side of his premises.

—The great slugging match between Corbett and Fitzsimmons has gone up in smoke, or talk.

The potato crop for 1895 will reach 300,000,000 bushels, at least 30,000,000 more than 1894.

—Considerable snow fell Saturday and Sunday nights, but the sun soon melted the white mantle away.

—Take your crocks or kegs to the creamery and get Mr. Hall to put you up a fine lot of buttermilk for winter use.

—The addition to Mr. Brennan's house, on upper Mechanic street, is completed and adds much to the appearance of the property.

—Anyone wishing a fine drive should go up the Red Mill brook road. The stones have all been taken out, making it one of the finest roads in the county.

—Argument Court will be held on Tuesday next.

—Coudersport will soon have a telephone exchange.

—Will Picard has packed his Ferris wheel away for the winter.

—Sandford Fry took the premium in "mashing" school marms last week.

—The sidewalk along A. B. Armstrong's lot on State street has been replaced with new planking.

—Frank Taylor and Vinnie G. Link were linked together at Olean by Justice Beardsley on Saturday last.

—The Young Men's Christian Association will meet at Erie and hold a convention from Oct. 24th to the 27th.

—Football is becoming quite popular in Smethport. A hot game was played Saturday on the school house grounds.

—Dr. H. L. McCoy has shown the proper spirit by placing a large street lamp in front of his residence on upper Main street.

—The MINER is indebted to Deputy Secretary of Internal affairs, Major Isaac B. Brown for part first of the secretary's report for 1894.

—No, Will Herzog has not been married, although his appearance would lead any one to believe that he had been "snatched bald-headed."

—A. B. Armstrong has purchased W. D. Gallup's interest in the Bean farm and he is now sole owner of one of the best farms in the county.

—The new moon last Monday night, as it came above the horizon, blushed when it discovered how dark our streets were, and immediately sank out of sight.

—On Monday last Barney Brook well No. 4 was started Chinaward. This well is located about 400 feet southeast of No. 1. May this venture prove a success.

—Wm. Barton was committed to jail by Justice C. C. Ward, of Port Allegany on a commitment dated Oct. 16, on the charge of stealing a horse and buggy.

—Faint rumors are abroad that sometime in the dim and misty future Smethport's streets will be illuminated by electricity. We hope it will materialize.

—Some miscreant cut the large rope that drives the big drum on the Ferris wheel one day recently. A good dose of a few days in jail would be a benefit to such hoodlums.

—Earl Karns, a popular young man, who has been ill for several weeks with typhoid fever, is getting along nicely and is expected to recover. He is at the club house of the Lafayette Gun Club at Lewis Run.—Era.

Mrs. F. N. Taylor is meeting with decided success in the sale of her "housewife's friend" and no wonder, as any good housekeeper can readily see at a glance its labor-saving qualities and to see means to buy the article.

—And now it is asserted in high places that Bradford editors have no depth. It is evident that the man who made the assertion either lacks discernment or else he has never undertook to fill their space.—Mt. Jewett Herald.

—Rev. John A. Courtright, of Elba, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church next Sunday, morning and evening. The members of the church and congregation are earnestly requested to attend these services.

—Farmers should exercise great care in selecting their stock. It does not cost any more to keep a good cow than a poor one and the result of keeping a good cow is a profit at the end of the year, while a poor one is sure to be a loss.

—Butterworth, of the Enterprise, and Colcord, of the Journal, at Coudersport, have gone into active training for the institute next week, and Potter's school marms will be royally entertained by those able drivers of the quill.

—Many farmers wonder why their cattle are poor; the chances are that a good-sized cat could be thrown through the cracks in the barn. Give the cattle a good warm place during the cold weather and less feed will be required.

—The Buffalo High School foot ball team came to Bradford last Saturday and played a game with the Bradford kickers defeating them by a score of 8 to 4. As the New Yorker said "it was not much of a game as none of the players were killed."

—The farmers should visit the livery barn of A. T. Palmer and take a look at his oat cleaning apparatus and make a note of how much foul stuff there is in the grain. It would certainly make them more careful about cleaning their grain properly.

—About the first of November John Chadwick will move into one of Mr. Sartwell's houses on Water street, where he will give instruction in music, both vocal and instrumental. Piano and organ tuning will also comprise one of his many accomplishments.

—Don't expect an advertisement to bear fruit in one night. You can't eat enough in a week to last you a year, and you can't advertise on that plan either. People who advertise only once in three months forget that most folks cannot remember anything longer than about seven days.—Ex.

—Leo, the son of Philip Hafner, of Kasson, while chopping wood last Monday, cut of the big toe of his right foot so that it hung to the foot by a small piece of skin. His older brother took a razor and cut it off entirely before Dr. McCoy arrived to dress the wound. The boy is doing well, but lost a large amount of blood during the operation.

—Last Sunday a representative had the pleasure of viewing the famous Bunker Hill farm. Few people have any idea of the immensity of this farm. About 250 acres of this land was cleared at one time and the underbrush set on fire. This burned the soil so that it lost its fertility, and, with the exception of an old orchard, the farm is absolutely barren.

—Capt W. B. Chapman, of Bradford, attended the meeting of the Union Veteran legion at Buffalo last week. On Friday forenoon, as he came out of the Legion's headquarters, where he had attended a meeting, in crossing Main street he was run over by a buggy driven by a lady and quite badly injured. He was taken to Bradford in the afternoon.

—Mrs. Morrison, of Smethport, wife of Judge Thomas A. Morrison, of McKean county, spent a portion of last evening here while en route to Brookville, where she is to-day paying a visit to the Soldiers' Memorial Home. Mrs. Morrison is one of the foremost and most enthusiastic members of the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R., and has for years taken great personal as well as official interest in the success of the above institution, which is an enduring monument to the perseverance and loyalty of the W. R. C. in Pennsylvania.—DuBois Courier 17th.

—The roof of the rear end of the Armstrong drug store has received a new covering of shingles.

—There are seven candidates to be elected to the Superior court, but each elector can only vote for six.

—Mrs. G. M. Smith has had a new hardwood sidewalk built in front of her property on Rose Hill avenue.

—There is a rumor circulating around that sometime in the dim future the depot at Eldred will be rebuilt.

—Star Hose, of Port Allegany, have a dance and supper to-night. The Olean orchestra will furnish the music.

—Robert L. Edgett and "Eric Derrick, son" of the Era are having a passage at repartee through the newspapers.

—The Ceres Mail states the loss by fire will reach almost $20,000. Scarcity of water was a great drawback in subduing the flames.

—The young ladies of St. Luke's choir made A. G. Crawford very happy by presenting him with Shakespeare's works in twelve volumes.

—The Star says Joseph H. Whitcomb a well-known man, who for years did business in Bradford, died at the hospital at 10:20 p. m. Tuesday.

—The Kane Leader of Wednesday says: "W. Hogan died of pneumonia at his home on Biddle street last Tuesday evening, about 7 o'clock, aged 65 years.

—The P. H. C. will have an oyster supper at the residence of Mrs. Moore on lower Main street, Thursday, Oct. 31, from 5 till 10 o'clock. Every body come.

—We are very much pleased at having secured a good correspondent from Port Allegany again. Do not fail to read this letter and in fact all the correspondence.

—The Western Pennsylvania Press club will visit Atlanta Exposition. They will start about the 11th of November and be there on Pennsylvania day the 14th.

—Miss Edna Sprague lost her pocket-book, containing over $10, Wednesday night between the millinery store of Mrs. Carrie Reilly and the Brownell corner. The finder will please return to the owner.

—The Harrisburg Telegraph says the river at that place is lower than it has been since 1803 which was the lowest ever known. A person can walk across dry shod by stepping from one stone to another.

—The Enterprise says J. C. Marble of Coudersport, and Miss Ella Brine, of Roulette, were married Wednesday. It would seem difficult to combine marble and brine, but Rev. R. T. Guernsey seemed equal to the task.

—Amos Ross and Miss Grace Berryman were married at the Grand Central Hotel at Olean by Presiding Elder Lattimer last Tuesday. On their arrival home Wednesday the Crosby band gave the happy couple a serenade.

—Charles Rowland, of East Bradford, attempted to commit suicide Tuesday night by taking a dose of laudanum. Dr. Ash was called, emetics were administered and his life saved. Afterwards he went to drinking and was locked up.

—Last week we made mention of the unusually large beets that Messrs. Dodge & Sherburne raised on their farm. Last week Mr. Dodge presented a representative with a beet that weighed 14 pounds. This is the largest of the season.

—Wonder if England isn't making preparations to gobble up Turkey about Thanksgiving day?—Little Valley Spy. Don't know what England may do, Bro., but we assure you "Uncle Sam's" children will do considerable of that kind o work about Thanksgiving.

—The coroner's jury at Eldred which has been investigating the late wreck on the W. N. Y. & P. R. R. at that place brought in a verdict Tuesday that the wreck was caused by malicious train wreckers. It is to be hoped that officials of the road will succeed in ferreting out the miscreants.

—Sanford S. Prorin, of Warsaw township, Jeff. Co., Pa., while stopping for a few days with his brother at the old homestead in Farmers Valley lost a valuable colt belonging to his young team which he had recently drove here. The cause was a severe attack of lung fever.

—The life of a country weekly is its local news matter. Let that be complete, well written and in a style best suited to its readers, and the publisher need fear no city weekly, even though it be sold at half or quarter the price paid for the home paper.—Ex. This is correct and our many subscribers could assist us materially by sending in the news.

—The small boy with his deadly air gun is abroad in the land, and the average mortal stands in danger of losing an eye at almost any time. The boys are hunting for sparrows on the streets and as a general rule are not particular in which direction they shoot. An air gun in the hands of a careless boy is a dangerous plaything and often results in serious injury; either to the boy or his playmates.—Era. Right you are, Bro. Derrickson. A man caught on the streets with a gun, shooting promiscuously, would soon find himself in the lock-up. A boy with an air gun is just as dangerous, and should receive a severe lesson that would teach him better.

—An editor who died of starvation after making Dr. Tanner ashamed of himself, was being escorted to heaven by an angel who had been sent out for that purpose. "May I look at the other place before we ascend to eternal happiness?" "Easily," said the angel. So they went below and skirmished around, taking in the sights. The angel lost track of the editor, and went around Hades to hunt him. He found him sitting by a furnace fanning himself and gazing with rapture upon a lot of people in the fire. There was a sign on the furnace which said: "Delinquent subscribers." "Come," said the angel, "we must be going." "You go on," said the editor. "I'm not coming. This is heaven enough for me."—Ex.

—A gentleman traveling in Texas met on the road a wagon drawn by four oxen, driven by a countryman, who, in addition to the skillful flourish of his whip, was vociferously encouraging his horned horses in this fashion: "Haw, Presbyterian!" "Gee, Baptist!" "Whoa, Episcopalian!" Get up, Methodist! The traveler stopped the driver, remarked that he had strange names for his oxen, and that he would to know why he thus called them. Said the driver: "I call this ox Presbyterian, because he is true blue and never fails, pulls through difficulties and holds out to the end; besides he knows more than all the rest. I call this ox Baptist because he is always after water, and it seems as though he'd never drink enough; then again, he won't eat with the others. I call this ox Episcopalian; he has a mighty way of holding his head up, and if the yoke gets a little too tight he tries to kick and crawl out of the track. I call this ox Methodist because he puffs, blows and bellows as he goes along, and you'd think he was pulling all creation; but he don't pull a pound unless you continually stir him up.—Brocton Mirror.

A Farewell Concert.

Last Tuesday night a select company of the music-loving people of our town enjoyed a fine treat in listening to the farewell concert given by Mr. A. G. Crawford. At half-past eight, when the curtain rose the audience was pleasantly surprised by the appearance of about 20 singers congregated on the stage, fifteen beautiful young ladies, richly attired, and the five gentlemen in the background, made a strong impression upon the audience and elected rounds of applause. The opening chorus, "The Carnivale" by Rossini was beautifully rendered and assured those present that a rich treat was in store for them. Mr. Crawford's piano solo was rendered in Mr. C.'s usual perfect style. The tenor solo, "Yeoman's Wedding Song," sung by Dr. H. L. McCoy, was rendered in the style that showed the singer entered heartily into the subject and had experienced such a happy event himself. The violin solo by Mr. Georg Vorwerck was grand and was roundly applauded. The recitation of "Genevra," by Miss Lucy Backus was a grand treat which was encored, and she recited the "Raggedy, Raggedy Man," in a manner that was highly pleasing to all present. Miss Allen McCoy's soprano solo "Scena and Prayer, Der Freischutz," one of Von Weber's favorite compositions, was delivered in a rich and clear tone and elected an encore, when she sang a scotch song in happy style which was highly appreciated. The piano solo, "Kathleen Mavourneen," rendered by Miss Lulu Keenan, was rich and grand, showing that Miss Lulu was a pianiste of considerable promise. The Quartette "La Carita," by Rossini, sang by Mesdames Reilly and Coleman and Misses Alice and Agnes McCoy, was beautifully and artistically rendered. Then followed violin and piano solos by Mr. Vorwerck and Mr. Crawford, in their usual perfect style. The closing piece, a quartette by Messrs. McCoy, McElroy, Bouton and Gilbert (Geibel's "Annie Laurie,") was well rendered and was a fitting piece to close such an excellent entertainment. Every piece rendered was encored.

Destructive Fire.

The village of Ceres was visited by a destructive fire this morning.

About 5 o'clock fire was discovered on the roof of the Grand Central Hotel. A bucket brigade was formed, but its efforts toward checking the flames were unavailing. The fire leaped from the hotel to a block of business places located across the railroad track and they were also destroyed.

Following is a list of the losses: L. A. White, Grand Central; loss, $4,000, insurance $3,000. V. P. Carter, Chapman store building, loss $1,200; insured. Roberts Bros., merchants, loss $1,000; insurance $1,100. F. H. Call, store building, loss $700; no insurance. L. J. White, merchant, loss $700; insurance $500. C. A. Treasurer G. C. Fagnan, of Bradford, was over Wednesday sizing up the county funds.

Our esteemed townsman, Warley Gifford, arrived home from Philadelphia Wednesday.

Mrs. J. C. Gallup and children have been visiting friends at Mansfield, Pa., for about ten days.

Sheridan Gorton, Jr., was the guest of his friend, Alex Clark, in Bradford, on Saturday and Sunday last.

Clifford C. Barrett, of Oil City, has been visiting his nephew, C. E. Barrett, on Mill street, for a few days.

Mrs. F. N. Taylor visited Buffalo over Sunday returning home Monday night accompanied by Miss Bessie.

E. J. Brasted, the nurseryman, returned from Geneva, N. Y., Monday, where he has been packing his fall orders.

John Dodge started for Nununsing, Mich., Monday where he will remain all winter estimating timber for T. H. Poor & Co.

Rev. J. W. Sanborn was called to his former home in Newfield, N. H., last Monday by the serious illness of his mother.

Judge Henry Hamlin, wife, and daughter, Mrs. J. H. McCandless visited Buffalo Wednesday and from there will go to Geneva.

The Rev. Harris Peck, of Bradford will occupy the pulpit at the M. E. church next Sunday during the absence of Mr. Sanborn.

Mrs. Robert Bloodsworth, of Olean, was visiting friends in town the first of the week. Thursday morning she started for Bradford.

Mrs. G. B. Webster has returned to her home in Elgin, Ill., having spent nearly a year at East Smethport with her sister, Mrs. T. L. Chapin.

Judge T. A. Morrison, of Smethport, McKean county, is in this city, and will preside at the trial of some cases during the present term of court.—Franklin "News."

Miss Clara A. Georgia has returned to her home at State Line Mills, Pa., after an extended tour to Baltimore, M. D., Washington, D. C., Williamsport, Pa., and other places.

Arthur D. Nichols, of Buffalo formerly conductor on the W. N. Y. & P. R. R. was greeting his many friends in town last Friday. Mr. Nichols is now engaged in the drug business at Buffalo.

W. H. Randall, ex-postmaster and one of the progressive citizens and staunch Republicans, of Duke Centre, was a very pleasant caller Wednesday. Mr. Randall is a gentleman, who believes in helping the poor printer.

Prof. Georg Vorwerck was a pleasant caller at the MINER office, while on his visit here. He is a pleasant gentleman to meet, having been an extensive traveler in foreign countries. His masterly handling of the violin would open the way to the hearts of all music loving people.

Mr. A. G. Crawford started Thursday for his home at La Port, Indiana, where he will remain for a short time and he will continue his study of music. It is with sincere regret that we bid adieu to Mr. Crawford. In the time he has remained with us he has endeared himself in the hearts of all by his gentlemanly and upright conduct.

Mrs. T. A. Morrison, Mrs. E. T. Daly, Mrs. F. L. Sherwood, Ralph Burdick and wife, Mrs. James McGuire, S. E. Bell, Chas. McKean and wife, John Reilly, S. R. Lindsley and son, Art Thams, Leon Grigsby, Claude Burdick, Harry Backus, T. J. Gilbert, Leon Comes, and Eb. Pattison were over to Bradford Saturday night to see O'Neil in his celebrated character of "Virginius."

Dr. A. E. Smith and wife, of Olean, boarded the train Saturday night to come to Smethport to visit his old friend, W. A. Grinard. On the way he got into a heated political discussion. When Larrabee was reached he was so much interested that he did not hear the brakeman call out the station. Consequently he rode on to Port Allegany. From there he hired a livery and he and his esteemed better half enjoyed a ride over Rush hill. It was a great query to Mr. Grinard how his visitors happened to arrive so late, but the Doctor was mum and would make no disclosures.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

Interesting News From Various Localities Picked up by Our Regular Correspondents.

PORT ALLEGANY.

Editor Scholl, of the Williamsport Times, was the guest of John Shuts over Sunday. Mr. Scholl is a genial fellow to meet, and stands "way up" down in Lycoming county.

Considerable gossip is being indulged in over the antics of a young Italian by the name of Dispenso, who runs a fruit store on Mill street. It appears that the diamond-eyed son of Italy became enamored of a young lady in town and proposed marriage. She, of course, accepted his attentions and promised to share his joys and sorrows with the young count. On Monday they went to Olean to have the knot tied, and just as they reached the office of a clergyman the man with "coats of pearl" changed his mind and the minister lost a ten-dollar fee. Just what caused this sudden change of modus operandi no one knows, but it is quietly hinted that there is a certain-complexioned lady over in Potter county who has the legal right to call young Dispenso "hubby." Whether his conscience troubled him or it was the objections of his parents to the union, no one seems to know. Both young people came back on the evening train, but they were in different cars, and the young lady had to take a double dose of rice. Young Dispenso is apparently a pretty square fellow, very genteel and pleasant, and the young lady is well thought of in the community.

REMARKABLE SUCCESS

Of an Enterprising and Progressive Newspaper.

The best daily paper published in Pennsylvania is The Philadelphia Inquirer. Their facilities for obtaining all the news, national, State and local, are the very best to be found anywhere. The new building into which they moved some eight months ago is not only unsurpassed for beauty, but the spacious quarters give them an opportunity to handle news in a more complete and satisfactory manner than any of their contemporaries. Private telegraph wires, special long distance telephones and the regular service of the Associated Press are only a few of the most improved methods for gathering news to be found in the new building. The Inquirer has long been the recognized authority on sporting matters, and is in every way worthy of its tremendous popularity, which has gained it the largest circulation of any Republican newspaper in the United States. The several departments are each under the personal direction of a competent authority on the subjects discussed. Reports, decisions and all the details of the State Supreme Court proceedings are given special attention. The Inquirer carries the largest amount of advertising of any Pennsylvania newspaper and is everywhere acknowledged the best medium of any one cent daily.

GOD SAVE THE COMMONWEALTH.
ELECTION PROCLAMATION.

PURSUANT TO AN ACT OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO REGULATE THE NOMINATION AND ELECTION OF PUBLIC OFFICERS, REQUIRING CERTAIN EXPENSES INCIDENT THERETO TO be paid by the several counties, and punishing certain offenses in regard to such elections," approved the 10th day of June, A. D. 1893, I, A. B. Walker, High Sheriff of the county of McKean, do hereby make known and proclaim to the qualified electors of McKean County that a general Election will be held in the said county of McKean on TUESDAY the 5th day of November, A. D. 1895, (being the Tuesday next following the first Monday of said month) for the purpose of electing the following officers hereinafter named, viz.

One person for State Treasurer.
One person for County Treasurer.

I also make known and give notice that the following is a correct list of the nominations for the respective offices above recited, as far as may be, in the form in which they appear upon the ballots, namely:

A cross (X) marked in the square at the right of the name of each candidate, inside the line enclosing the column, indicates a vote for each candidate thus marked. If a cross (X) be marked within the circle it will be equivalent to a mark opposite every name in the column. Those who do not desire to vote a straight ticket must not mark a cross within the circle at the head of column.

A DEFICIT PARTY
Holding Back Expenditures to Mislead the Public

As was to have been expected, the administration is beginning to hold back expenditures in the closing days of September in order to be able to send out to the country a false and misleading report of the government's financial operations for the first quarter of the fiscal year. Democratic organs are commencing their regular monthly tactics of proclaiming that at last the income of the treasury under the Wilson free trade tariff is equaling the outgo. By the first of October we will see a concerted attempt on the part of apologists of free trade to persuade the people that there is really no need of tariff revision.

This effort will be based, if the past record of the Cleveland administration counts for anything, on dishonest treasury statistics which will be doctored for the purpose of showing a surplus of two or three millions for September. The president and his advisers realize the danger of allowing their party to go before the country in November as the creature of a tariff that is piling up a deficit at the rate of more than $50,000,000 a year. But however loudly the administration defenders may shout, it will be perfectly easy for Republican journals to convict them of falsehood by publishing detailed accounts of the revenue and expenditure for the whole period since July 1.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

THE OFFICIAL BALLOTS
They Are Now Being Mailed to the County Commissioners.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 22.—The Official ballots are now being mailed from the state department to the commissioners of the various counties. With the exception of the counties of Greene, Huntingdon and Mifflin, the ballot will contain six columns. In Huntingdon and Mifflin the ballot has two extra columns by reason of the contest in that judicial district, which has resulted in Williamson and Culberson going on as candidates by nomination papers. In Greene county the ballot will have seven columns, owing to Ingraham being on as the candidate of the "True Democratic" party for judge.

On the regular ballot the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition parties have full state tickets. But the People's party has only candidates for state treasurer and three judges of the superior court.

The Socialist-Labor party has a candidate for state treasurer only.

Next year the state department will have its hands full inasmuch as there will be an election for presidential electors, thirty two congressmen, twenty five senators, 204 members of assembly and several judges.

Russian Competition Coming.

A number of manufacturers at St. Petersburg have approached M. Witte with the request that special facilities shall be granted for the export of certain Russian products to Hamburg, whence they are destined to enter the markets of the continent. The wares chiefly affected are cotton, woolen and silk goods of Russian manufacture, porcelain, soap and confectionery.—Ryland's Iron Trade Circular.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St., California, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at A. W. Colegrove's and A. B. Armstrong & Co.'s drug stores. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

PROTECTION'S POLICY
Establish Home Industries and Increase Foreign Exports.

Protection does not [illegible] an export trade. The policy is to establish firmly home industries and let American ingenuity and enterprise do the rest. [illegible] at Waltham, Mass., [illegible] where has been followed by the export of American watches to Europe, Mexico, South America and Australia. This export trade is due primarily to the success attained at home under protection.

If we did not make good watches at Waltham and elsewhere we could not have [illegible] Swiss competition abroad. What is true of the watch industry is true of many others. It would apply to a great many home industries if they had received in the past years the encouragement which they are entitled [illegible] [illegible] Protection enables us to do it.

THE BRITISH BOND AGE
Result of Three Years of Democratic Meddling With Finance.

There have been already three bond sales under the Cleveland administration amounting to over $160,000,000, ranging from 9¼ years to 30 years in length of time when they will fall due and bearing interest at 4 and 5 per cent.

The charge thus saddled upon the country by taking away the duties on imports which would have made the bond sales unnecessary makes the following startling aggregate:

Principal		Total Interest
$50,000,000 at 5 per cent	10 years	$25,000,000
50,000,000 at 5 per cent	9¾ years	23,750,000
62,315,400 at 4 per cent	30 years	74,778,480
$162,315,400		$123,528,480

This makes a total of principal and interest of $285,843,880 representing loss than three years of Democratic meddling with the finances of the country and immediately following an administration under which the national debt was being speedily reduced, the national reserve fund augmented and unprecedented prosperity prevailing throughout the land.—Irish World.

Many cases of so called heart disease are only cases of acid fermentation in the stomach. The irritation from the acid hinders the action of the heart, through the pneumogastric nerve, and very often the excessive restraining power of this peculiarly acting nerve, becomes a very serious matter. The heart makes the greatest effort to do its work, but there is a shortness of breath which cannot be made up for and the feeling throughout the chest is very distressing. Sometimes this acid arises and causes an acrid smarting in the throat, at other times the burning is up and down the chest.

Another stomach trouble is that form of dyspepsia which gives pain after eating. Persons with this disease seem to have but a scant measure of nerve strength when food is being digested, the stomach needs the concentration of all of the nerve and brain force and if reading or close thought is attempted soon after eating, the stomach commences that intolerable aching which dyspeptics dread so much, when the only immediate relief appears to be to stop the mental activity and go out of doors, around. In such cases there is evidently for the time being too little nerve power to divide between the stomach and the brain, each one alone needs it all to enable it to perform its labor.

There are two properties possessed by Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic which constitute it a cure for all of the above derangements. One is its power of purifying and sweetening the stomach and stopping the formation of gas and acid; the other is the giving of increased nerve action and strength. Soon, with better digestion and better nutrition, there is a general renewal of life and health. The mind of a business man under its use, soon become clearer and more active, thoughts come easier and are more clearly expressed, the memory is stronger, business plans and ventures are arranged in a better manner and are more patiently and successfully carried out, and details are attended to better because of the increased strength of both mind and muscle.

Women having the care of a household on their minds find Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic to be a great blessing. It gives better digestion, better nutrition, more strength, cures that feeling of weariness in the morning, that anxiety of mind that fear that something is going wrong or that something bad is going to happen, cures dizziness, shortness of breath, pressure through the chest, belching of wind, rumbling in the bowels, heartburn, and all forms of dyspepsia that come from weakness.

Mrs. Ella Pierce, of Borie, Potter Co., Pa., writes: "I can truthfully say that I owe my life to your stomach and nerve tonic. I was troubled with my stomach for over a year and tried everything I could hear of, but did not get any benefit. I was nearly in despair, for although I had only four in my family I could not begin to do the work for them. An aunt of my friend wrote me to try Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic, and I did. I did not expect to ever get any better, but was greatly relieved on taking the first dose and now after taking only one bottle of your remedy I can do my work and my stomach does not hurt me only when I do very heavy work. I shall continue its use until I am entirely cured, for I am perfectly satisfied that it will cure all such stomach trouble. I thank you dear Doctor, a thousand times over for putting before the public such a wonderful remedy for human suffering."

Mrs. Albert Harman, of 2307 Fifth Ave., Altoona, Pa., writes, "Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic has done me a power of good, that burning after meals has left me. I have always become so nervous that I would take nervous spells so bad sometimes that I would have to send for the doctor, but have not had one since I commenced using your stomach and nerve tonic."

H. C. Beatty, Barkeyville, Pa., says: "For years I had a severe pain in my stomach after meals, one bottle of Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic cured me, I think permanently."

J. C. Fulton, of Burgettstown, Pa., writes, "I have been afflicted with the rheumatism and was laid up in bed a good part of the time, my stomach was in a bad condition and would not retain food. I began to use Dr. Day's Stomach and Nerve Tonic. It not only helped my stomach but relieved me of the rheumatism and also increased my weight wonderfully."
